

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to an apparatus for inspecting a liquid crystal panel capable of coping with a fine pitch and reducing an inspection time.

The inspecting apparatus of the present invention comprises an integrated circuit board; a tape carrier package fixedly connected to the integrated circuit board; and a connector having a first pads fixedly connected to the tape carrier package and a second pads connected to the liquid crystal panel.